Smile we have your picture!

This is part of our packing and shipping process and has benefited our clients and helped them save time and money.

As materials move from one location to another, having visual documentation establishes the integrity of the shipment as it leaves our facility.

without delay.

Two areas this additional step has helped our clients:

1. Expectation management: As the materials move to the next location, they should be able to flow into the next step

2. Our clients have this additional visual documentation to help streamline a freight claim in the event one is required.

So, smile we have your picture. This is just another way in which QPI is working to improve our service and build added value to our clients.
